Item 8.01 Other Events.

On June 7, 2006, we announced that we had signed a non-binding letter of intent to further evaluate the potential of a purchase transaction to acquire several U.S. rotary land drilling rigs. Subsequently, on June 28, 2006, we entered into an interim non-binding agreement which superseded the letter of intent. The transactions contemplated are non-binding, are subject to the parties entering into definitive documentation, financing, acceptable financial statements from the entity to be acquired, an appraisal acceptable to lenders, and board and potentially shareholder approvals. It is uncertain if these conditions will be satisfied or waived. The term expires on August 4, 2006, unless terminated earlier or extended by mutual consent. If the transactions are consummated, we would acquire all of the shares of the entity owning the rigs for $50 million in cash and 500,000 shares of common stock with registration rights. The transaction would be subject to customary conditions, no shop and confidentiality provisions. Effective upon closing, we would enter into employment agreements with certain of the principals. At this time it is uncertain if this transaction will occur, and if it were to occur, what form and terms of the financing would be in order to consummate the transaction.
