Item 5.03. Amendments to Articles of Incorporation or By-laws; Change in Fiscal Year.

On November 19, 2009, the Board of Directors (the Board ) of The New York Times Company (the Company ) adopted and approved amendments to the By-laws of the Company (the Amended By-laws ), effective immediately. The Amended By-laws revise and update the procedures for stockholders to propose business or nominations for election of directors to be considered at annual meetings, which are referred to as advance notice provisions. As amended, the advance notice provisions set out the notice requirements for nominations separately from those with respect to other business. In addition the provisions:

require stockholders making proposals or nominations to disclose, among other things, all ownership interests, hedges, short positions, economic and profit incentives and rights to vote with respect to any security of the Company; require stockholders making proposals or nominations to provide a reasonably detailed description of all agreements, arrangements and understandings between proposing persons and other stockholders of the Company in connection with the proposed business or nomination; and require that the additional disclosures discussed above be updated and supplemented, if necessary, so as to be accurate as of the record date for the annual meeting.

These advance notice provisions are effective immediately and stockholders must comply with such provisions for the 2010 annual meeting of stockholders of the Company.

In addition to revising the advance notice provisions, the Amended By-laws also:

provide that stockholders may request a list of stockholders as of the record date to be produced at any meeting of stockholders as provided by the New York Business Corporation Law (the BCL ); provide that inspectors shall be appointed by the Board before each annual meeting or special meeting of the stockholders in order to take charge of the polls and make a certificate of the results of the votes taken as provided by the BCL;

revise and update various notice provisions; and provide expressly for the issuance of capital stock of the Company in uncertificated form.

A copy of the Amended By-laws is attached hereto as Exhibit 3.1 and incorporated herein by reference. The foregoing description of the Amended By-laws is qualified in its entirety by reference to the full text of the Amended By-laws.
