FINAL CB&I All-Employee Video Script

Hello, I m Pat Mullen, President and CEO of CB&I.

As you know, over the last few months, CB&I has been implementing a clear plan to help us emerge from a challenging time for the company and for our industry.

*As part of this plan, CB&I s Supervisory Board and management team have been working together diligently to determine our best path forward to position CB&I for long-term growth and success. We have reviewed multiple strategic options, including the initiation of a sale process for our Technology and former Engineered Products businesses, which was announced several months ago.

*We received high interest and bids from multiple parties for Technology and Engineered Products, a testament to the value of that business.

However, after careful consideration, our board and management team have ultimately decided to pursue an alternative path for CB&I. A path that we believe will create significant long-term opportunity for shareholders, customers and our valued employees.

*Today we announced that CB&I plans to combine with McDermott International. This includes all of CB&I, including Technology and Engineered Products, which will remain part of the combined company.

The combination of CB&I and McDermott will create a premier, vertically integrated engineering, procurement, fabrication, construction and installation provider across the energy infrastructure industry with significant scale, diversification and balanced global presence in high-growth markets.

*Together, CB&I and McDermott will have a broadened reach across the entire energy industry and a substantial competitive advantage that responds to evolving customer needs. In addition to benefitting from a platform primed to drive growth and achieve significant synergies, the combined company will have a much stronger and more flexible financial profile.

*McDermott is a leading provider of integrated engineering, procurement, construction and installation services or EPCI for offshore and subsea field developments worldwide, operating in 20 countries with more than 12,000 employees.

They deliver fixed and floating production facilities, pipelines and subsea systems from concept to commissioning to help energy companies safely produce and transport hydrocarbons.

*McDermott's focus on offshore and subsea developments is a natural complement to CB&I's focus on the downstream oil and gas and power industries. Our companies have complementary capabilities, customer relationships and geographic focus.

Importantly, McDermott's lump sum, self-perform experience and culture are closely aligned with CB&I's experience and focus on fixed-price work.

*CB&I's board of directors and senior leadership believe this combination is the best possible outcome for our shareholders, our customers and for our employees.

I understand that news of this magnitude may lead to many questions. I want to assure you that the combination of CB&I and McDermott is expected to create a positive future for the company.

*The new, combined company will be able to pursue large-scale projects and respond to evolving customer needs by providing them with the most complete energy infrastructure services, in both upstream and downstream markets, while offering our employees continued opportunities for growth in broader areas of our industry.

*Over the last few months, I have had the opportunity to spend time with David Dickson, McDermott's President and CEO, who will lead the combined company following the close of the transaction.

David and I share similar philosophies on employee engagement, empowerment and communication, and we are both committed to ensuring this combination is a success.

*There will be many decisions ahead of us, but we will work through them all in order to create alignment within our management teams and companies from the very beginning. Once the transaction has been completed, representatives from both companies will be part of the operational leadership of the combined company.

*Following the close of the transaction, I will stay with the company for a transition period to assist with the integration efforts as we work to ensure the capabilities and synergies of the combined company are maximized.

Additionally, both companies will be forming integration planning teams, with Jim Sabin leading the planning efforts for CB&I before the close of the transaction.

We expect the combination will be able to close in the second quarter of 2018, as there are customary legal and regulatory requirements and conditions.

*In the interim, the two companies will continue to operate separately and for that reason, it's going to be business as usual for most of us as we continue to perform our day-to-day jobs. CB&I has an excellent workforce, and I trust that all of us will remain focused on our existing duties and responsibilities during this transition period. As always, safety is paramount.

*We will keep you updated as new information becomes available, and you can expect to hear from McDermott's CEO soon, but it's important to know there are many legal and regulatory requirements and restrictions around communication in connection with the transaction even to our employees.

I ask that you please be patient, and I will commit that we will share as much information with you in as timely a manner as possible.

*I truly believe this is the best path for CB&I. As our industry continues to evolve, combining with McDermott is a natural course and ensures the new company is able to be the most collaborative and innovative partner for our customers.

You are an extremely talented group of employees, and I know you will continue to have enhanced opportunities for success in the company.
