The following letter was posted on Lucent's alumni website on April 25, 2006:

Dear Lucent Alumni,

As you know, Lucent and Alcatel have signed a definitive merger agreement to create the first truly global communications solutions provider.

This combination of two experienced and well-respected global communications leaders represents a strategic fit of vision, geography, solutions and people. The combined company created by this merger of equals will be incorporated in France, with executive offices in Paris. The North American operations will be based in New Jersey where global Bell Labs will remain headquartered. Serge Tchuruk, the chairman and CEO of Alcatel, will become non-executive chairman of the combined company, and I will become CEO of the combined company.

This news marks the beginning of an exciting new chapter for our company. But as with any significant change, it is natural for our stakeholders, such as retirees, to have questions about how this impacts you. With that in mind, I wanted to directly share with you some of the benefits this merger will provide and our vision for the future of our combined company. But before I do that, let me address what I know is on the top of your minds -- your pensions and retiree healthcare benefits.

PENSIONS AND HEALTHCARE

The way the deal is structured, Lucent will become a subsidiary of a larger parent company after the merger, and will remain the plan sponsor of the Lucent pension plans. Therefore, there will be no change to Lucent's pension commitments. The company will continue to meet its pension obligations consistent with federal requirements, as it always has done. Our pension funds are well funded under the current federally mandated ERISA rules, and the $34 billion in pension assets are held in trust funds exclusively for Lucent retirees. A professional, experienced team of fund managers continues to oversee these funds for the exclusive benefit of participants, and the funds are regularly audited by independent auditors.

The rising cost of retiree health care is a national issue - not a Lucent-specific one - and I recognize the impact it is having on retirees across the country. We will continue managing the costs of healthcare for eligible retirees, while balancing the needs of shareowners, retirees and current employees. In addition, for our formerly represented U.S. retirees, Lucent will continue to honor the commitments made to our unions in the 2004 collective bargaining agreement.

FREQUENTLY ASKED QUESTIONS

I hope the above information answered your questions. I also wanted to share with you some frequently asked questions and answers that we have prepared and share with others who ask about pensions and retiree health care.

Q: WILL THE NEW COMPANY TAKE OVER THE PENSION COMMITMENTS OF LUCENT?

Edgar Filing: LUCENT TECHNOLOGIES INC - Form DEFA14A

Lucent's pension funds remain well funded under the federally mandated ERISA rules. Lucent will become a subsidiary of a larger parent company after the merger, and will remain the plan sponsor of the Lucent pension plans. Accordingly, the transaction will not result in any change in the pension commitments of Lucent.

Q: HOW CAN MY PENSION BE SECURE IF ALCATEL IS IN A FOREIGN COMPANY? HOW DO I KNOW THAT THERE WILL BE A PENSION?

The pension obligations of Lucent will continue to remain with the U.S. entity, which will become a subsidiary of a new parent company. That U.S. legal entity will remain, and will continue to be subject to the same pension obligations. From a pension perspective, the obligation to those pensioners remains the same. Regardless of where a company is incorporated, it has to abide by the laws of the countries in which it does business.

Q: WILL THE COMBINED COMPANY CONTINUE TO SUBSIDIZE RETIREE HEALTHCARE FOR LUCENT'S RETIREES?

In the combined company, we will continue to manage the cost of U.S. retiree healthcare. We are always looking at how to balance the needs of our retirees with funding levels that would enable the company to remain a viable competitor. Our goal is to be able to provide access to quality healthcare plans at a level of subsidy that the company can afford.

HELPING CUSTOMERS ADDRESS NEW CHALLENGES

This strategic combination makes sense for both of our companies -- and our customers -- because of three industry forces: Competition, Consolidation and Convergence.

Competition: Our customers' competitive landscape is rapidly changing as the telecom, media and Internet worlds continue to converge. At the same time, we are seeing increased competition among our direct competitors.

Consolidation: As the industry continues to consolidate, our customers will benefit from a partner with the ability to design, build and manage their networks to deliver the advanced communications experience that end-users are seeking.

Convergence: Our customers are experiencing greater complexity as they strive to deliver converged services, seamlessly and securely, across a variety of networks and devices.

In the end, the winners in this industry will be defined as those who respond most quickly and with the most agility to these changing dynamics. This merger will create the broadest wireless, wireline and services portfolio in the industry, and we will be in a great position to profitably address these dynamics.

The most important thing to understand about this merger is that the primary motivation behind it is to generate growth in revenues and earnings based on the market opportunities we see in the future. Thanks to the complementary strengths each company brings to the table, we believe that once the merger is complete and the two companies are executing as an integrated company, we will be well positioned to enhance long-term value for all of our stakeholders -- shareowners, customers, employees and retirees. That is the key motivation for this merger transaction.

Sincerely,

Pat Russo
