Attention: John Elkann, Chairman and Chief Executive Officer

Dear Mr. Elkann:

I am writing in response to your letter to the PartnerRe Board of Directors of May 21, 2015.

First off, I want to emphasize that PartnerRe is ready, willing and able to fully engage with EXOR and its advisors. There is no need for the PartnerRe Board to make the determination you impose as a precondition to further discussions as the waiver from AXIS allows for full and open discussions with EXOR.

By electing to impose an additional and unnecessary condition on EXOR's willingness to engage with PartnerRe, we believe that EXOR has made clear that it does not wish to discuss improving its offer.

The PartnerRe Board remains steadfast in its belief that EXOR's offer is not in the best interests of our shareholders. In particular:

EXOR's offer price of $137.50 per common share significantly undervalues our business by comparison to both the benefits of our proposed merger-of-equals with AXIS and to our value as a standalone entity.

EXOR's refusal to engage with PartnerRe demonstrates that its offer is an attempt to acquire PartnerRe at an opportunistic point in the reinsurance cycle and at an inadequate valuation that does not appropriately reflect the strength of PartnerRe's balance sheet and franchise value.

EXOR's acquisition of a substantial stake in PartnerRe's common shares is a coercive attempt to further its opportunistic acquisition at the expense of PartnerRe's long-term shareholders.

EXOR's offer entails significant optionality – particularly as regards the absence of a direct contractual commitment from EXOR's parent company and controlling family for regulatory approvals and accountability for breach – that poses an unacceptable risk to PartnerRe's shareholders.

EXOR's offer exposes the PartnerRe shareholders to significant risk that PartnerRe would be out-of-pocket for up to $315 million of termination fees and expense reimbursement under the AXIS agreement without any compensation or meaningful recourse.

The deal protection measures in EXOR's proposed merger agreement are not appropriate in the context of EXOR's proposed all-cash acquisition.

Any acquisition by EXOR will involve a significantly longer time period to closing compared to the AXIS transaction, which we expect will be able to close at or shortly following shareholder approval. EXOR's offer fails to adequately compensate PartnerRe's shareholders for this delay and associated risk.

You have been clear that EXOR "will not consider increasing the price of its Binding Offer" and therefore we will continue to move forward with shareholder approval of our amalgamation with AXIS.

Sincerely,
