Item 2.06. Material Impairments.

On December 29, 2010, the board of directors of Centennial Bank, a subsidiary of Home BancShares, Inc. (the "Company"), determined a material charge for impairment to certain loans is required pursuant to generally accepted accounting principles applicable to Centennial Bank and the Company. As a result, the Company has charged the reserve for approximately $53 million for these loans. Consequently, the Company has determined it will record a fourth quarter of 2010 provision for loan losses in the range of $60 million to $65 million.

Edgar Filing: HOME BANCSHARES INC - Form 8-K

Of the amount charged off for the impaired loans, approximately half is related to extensions of credit to several borrowers (whose financial condition has deteriorated) in the Company's Florida market. The other half relate to loans in the Company's Arkansas market, primarily involving one borrowing relationship. After a review of the loans to this borrower, the board determined the terms and conditions of the loan documents are unlikely to be met due to a recent change in circumstances regarding the collectability of pledged collateral. The board's conclusion with respect to the remainder of the impaired loans was based on the lack of significant economic recovery in certain areas of the Company's Florida market and the Company's unsuccessful efforts thus far to collect on the loans.

The Company recently became aware fraudulent rural improvement district bonds had been sold to various financial institutions in Arkansas. As a result of the apparent fraud the board of directors also authorized a $3.6 million charge to investment securities. In addition, fraudulent loans associated with the issuer of the bonds in the amount of $2.2 million were also included in the loan charge offs noted above.

At this time, the Company does not anticipate these impairment charges will result in any future material cash expenditures.
