PART III NARRATIVE

Agile Software Corporation (the Company), is unable to file its Annual Report on Form 10-K (the 10-K) for the year ended April 30, 2006 (Fiscal 2006) by the prescribed filing date of July 14, 2006, without unreasonable expense or effort, as a result of the following. On June 23, 2006, the Company, at the direction of the audit committee, commenced a review, through independent counsel, of transactions entered into by its Taiwan sales office over the six fiscal quarters ended April 30, 2006. The review initially centered upon confirmation of the validity of a specific sale transaction. It was subsequently expanded to include a review of the Company's Taiwan sales office, and in particular the Company's relationship with, and transactions entered into with and by, its distributors in Taiwan, after the Company discovered that one of its distributors is partly owned by a member of management of the Company's Taiwan subsidiary and by certain other employees of this subsidiary.

The Company's total revenues from its Taiwan subsidiary, over the six fiscal quarters ended April 30, 2006, was approximately $4.5 million. The Company's relationship with the referenced related distributor, which commenced during the second quarter of Fiscal 2006, generated total revenues of approximately $1 million, including approximately $825,000 recognized during the fourth quarter of Fiscal 2006.

The Company is currently reviewing its internal control over financial reporting and its assessment as to whether any control deficiencies that exist, either individually or in combination, may constitute a material weakness in the Company's internal control over financial reporting as of April 30, 2006. Since management has not completed its evaluation of internal control over financial reporting or completed the preparation of its consolidated financial statements, there can be no assurance that control deficiencies that could be material weaknesses will not be identified. A material weakness is a control deficiency, or combination of control deficiencies, that results in more than a remote likelihood that a material misstatement of the annual or interim financial statements will not be prevented or detected. The existence of one or more material weaknesses would preclude a conclusion by management, and by the Company's independent registered public accounting firm, that the Company's internal control over financial reporting was effective as of April 30, 2006.

Until the review is complete, management will not be able to complete the preparation of the Company's consolidated financial statements as of and for the year ended April 30, 2006, or its assessment of the effectiveness of the Company's internal control over financial reporting, which are necessary to complete and file its Form 10-K. The Company currently cannot estimate when it may file its Form 10-K, but will do so as soon as practicable following completion of the review.

Edgar Filing: AGILE SOFTWARE CORP - Form NT 10-K

If so, attach an explanation of the anticipated change, both narratively and quantitatively, and, if appropriate, state the reasons why a reasonable estimate of the results cannot be made.

The Company's results of operations for the year ended April 30, 2006, to be reported in the Annual Report on Form 10-K, will reflect significant changes from the prior fiscal year, unrelated to the causes for the delay described in Part III. On May 25, 2006, the Company issued a press release reporting its results for the year ended April 30, 2006, a copy of which was furnished with a report on Form 8-K on May 25, 2006. Until completion of the review referenced above, however, the Company cannot be certain that these reported results will not change as a result of the review.
