NEW EMPLOYEE QUESTIONS AND RESPONSES POSTED ON TRANE S PORTAL ON JANUARY 29, 2008.

Business-related questions

1. If the sale is not completed prior to the date of record for Trane s first quarter dividend, will we still see the dividend?

We expect that our board will declare a dividend for the first quarter after it meets in February.

2. If the sale is completed prior to the date of record, will we lose the dividend or will it be prorated?

Once declared, the dividend is payable to all holders of record on the record date, regardless of whether the record date occurs before or after the date on which Trane is acquired by Ingersoll Rand.

3. How has Trane used the proceeds from the B&K sale?

The proceeds of the B&K sale have been used to repay bank financing and fund business requirements, with the remaining portion held in short-term investments.

4. Are we planning to repurchase stock?

No. The agreement with Ingersoll Rand prohibits us from repurchasing stock.

HR-related questions

1. Will we go through the regular 2008/09 salary planning process?

Yes. Merit increases will be planned according to our annual process and consistent with our past practice.

2. Will annual increases for 2008 be honored once the acquisition is closed?

In general, salary increases that have been approved through the salary-planning process before the closing of the acquisition and that are consistent with our past practices will be honored. Any exceptions are subject to the terms of the acquisition agreement. As per the agreement, Ingersoll Rand will provide compensation and benefits that, in the aggregate, (but excluding equity-based compensation and benefits) are no less favorable than those currently in place at Trane for one year after the acquisition closes.

3. Can I qualify for severance if I volunteer to leave the company?

No. The two companies will conduct a thorough integration process. Providing financial incentives for people to leave the business before the integration analysis is complete could result in unintended loss of the talent.

4. If my three-year vesting period occurs after the close of the sale, will balances in the Savings Plan/ESOP or other retirement plans be affected?

All active employees as of the date of the closing of the acquisition continue to accrue vesting service while employed by Ingersoll Rand in accordance with the terms of the applicable plan.

5. What if, due to the sale to Ingersoll Rand, employees lose their jobs before they attain their three-year vesting date?

Generally, except as otherwise provided under federal laws, if employees lose their jobs prior to reaching the three-year vesting date, they will not vest in the ESOP, 401(k) or Pension Plan. However, employees who qualify for limited benefits continuation through severance will continue to earn vesting service for the duration of severance.

6. What will happen to my ESPP account? Does Ingersoll Rand enable employees to buy shares of its stock through a similar plan?

ESPP participants will receive $36.50 in cash and .23 shares of Ingersoll Rand (NYSE: IR) stock for every Trane share they hold as of the date on which the acquisition closes.

Presently, Ingersoll Rand does not offer an ESPP of its own. However, Ingersoll Rand employees may purchase IR stock through its 401(k) plans.

7. Will the usual holding period continue to apply to recently purchased Employee Stock Purchase Plan (ESPP) shares?

Under the terms of the acquisition agreement with Ingersoll Rand, we need to discuss with and get Ingersoll Rand's approval before we can waive existing restrictions in our benefit plans, including the one-year holding period on the ESPP. These and other benefits-related questions will be addressed during the integration process; information will be communicated once decisions are made.

8. How will cash payment for Trane shares be credited within the Savings Plan/ESOP or 401k/Thrift Plan? Will it be in a cash account or put into a short-term investment account? Can we reinvest those funds? Can we roll over the proceeds into Ingersoll Rand stock?

No decisions have been made about the future of the Trane retirement plans following the close of the acquisition. These and other benefits-related questions will be addressed during the integration process; information will be communicated once decisions are made.

9. Will Fidelity continue to handle our retirement accounts after the sale closes?

While no specific decisions about the Trane plans have been made, Fidelity currently administers Ingersoll Rand's 401(k) plans. These and other benefits-related questions will be addressed during the integration process; information will be communicated once decisions are made.

10. How will Ingersoll Rand's acquisition of Trane affect the WABCO stock we currently own as Trane employees?

The acquisition of Trane by Ingersoll Rand will have no impact on your WABCO shares.

11. For Trane employees in the Retiree Medical Account, that dollar amount shows up as part of the total dollars in our 401(k). Can we expect that money will remain in our 401(k) account after the acquisition by Ingersoll Rand?

To clarify, although your Retiree Medical Subsidy Account is captured in your personalized NetBenefits statement, it is not part of your Savings Plan/ESOP balance; it is simply shown there for your convenience.

12. What will become of the Retiree Medical Subsidy Account?

There will be no changes to the Retiree Medical Subsidy Account prior to closing. These and other benefits-related questions will be addressed during the integration process; information will be communicated once decisions are made.

13. What will happen to any existing Trane training and development courses since Ingersoll Rand offers its employees a university of classes and programs?

No changes will occur prior to the closing of the acquisition. This issue will be addressed as part of the integration process, and any changes will be communicated once decisions are made.
