Non-GAAP Financial Measures The Company uses financial measures which are not calculated and presented in accordance with US generally accepted accounting principles ("GAAP"), including EBITDA and Adjusted EBITDA, in evaluating its financial and operational decision making regarding potential acquisitions and presenting the operating and financial performance of the Company, as well as a means to evaluate period-to period comparison. The Company presents these non-GAAP financial measures because it believes them to be an important supplemental measure of performance that is commonly used by securities analysts, investors and other interested parties in the evaluation of companies in our industry. We refer you to the reconciliations in this presentation. The Company defines EBITDA as defined as net loss before: interest expense, benefit from (provision for) income taxes; amortization of identifiable intangible assets and depreciation. We define Adjusted EBITDA as EBITDA, further adjusted to remove: income (loss) from discontinued operations, net of tax; other (income) expense, net, in operating income (loss); impairment of goodwill; operational restructuring and other charges; other income (expense), net, below operating income (loss); non-cash expense (income) associated with stock compensation; and charges we consider to be non-recurring in nature such as legal expenses associated with litigation, professional fees associated potential and completed acquisitions.
