COMAMTECH ANNOUNCES NEW TRADING SYMBOL ON NASDAQ (COMT)

Comamtech Inc. (“Comamtech”) (Nasdaq: CNIC) announced today that it has received a new trading symbol on NASDAQ which will be COMT. The new trading symbol will replace the predecessor Copernic Inc. symbol of CNIC. The new trading symbol will be effective at the market open of NASDAQ Stock Market (“Nasdaq”) on Monday, November 15, 2010.

The new trading symbol was obtained in connection with the completion of the Comamtech plan of arrangement, as previously announced on November 4, 2010, pursuant to which the shareholders of Copernic Inc. have become shareholders of Comamtech.

Comamtech Inc. has filed an appeal to the recent delisting notice which it received from Nasdaq in connection with the completion of the plan of arrangement. The appeal will stay the suspension and the delisting through the conclusion of the appeal process. Comamtech has been informed by Nasdaq that the hearing will be held on December 16, 2010. Comamtech shares shall continue to trade at least until said hearing date or longer depending on the determination by Nasdaq of the continuing suitability of the trading of Comamtech shares on Nasdaq. Comamtech has previously announced a reverse acquisition of DecisionPoint system (OTCBB: DNPI) which is expected to be an important factor in the appeal to Nasdaq regarding continuation of trading of the Comamtech shares. Comamtech anticipates meeting all of the Nasdaq listing qualification requirements effective as of the closing of the DNPI acquisition, however, there is no guarantee or assurance that the appeal will succeed.

Comamtech is the successor to Copernic which was sold to N. Harris Computer Corporation on November 4, 2010.

Statements contained in this Form 6-K, which are not historical facts, are forward-looking statements as that term is defined in the Private Securities Litigation Reform Act of 1995.
