Radvision Reduces First Quarter 2003 Estimate, Outlook For Year

Tuesday April 1, 6:59 am ET

Conference Call and Web Cast Scheduled at 9 a.m. EST Today

GLEN ROCK, N. J.--(BUSINESS WIRE)--April 1, 2003--RADVISION (Nasdaq: RVSN - News) today announced that it now expects to report first quarter 2003 revenue of approximately $11.0 million and breakeven net income and EPS for the period.

Based on the revised revenue amount, the Company will record an operating loss for the 2003 first quarter, which will be offset by financial income from its substantial cash position, resulting in the breakeven net income. The Company will remain cash flow positive. The Company's initial projection for the first quarter ended March 31, 2003 was for revenue of $12.8 million, net income of $620,000 and EPS of $0.03. In the first quarter of 2002, the Company reported revenue of $11.6 million, net income of $272,000 and EPS of $0.01. Final first quarter 2003 results will be reported on April 15.

The Company attributed the reduction in its first quarter estimate to lower than expected sales of its Networking Business Unit (NBU) products in the U.S. First quarter 2003 international NBU sales and sales at its Technology Business Unit (TBU) were on target.

The Company expects growth to resume in the second half of the year, with full year TBU sales projected to increase 7%, and NBU sales to increase 3% including approximately $5 million of 'Other Revenue' from continuing and new business with broadband service providers.

The Company has adjusted its quarterly projections for the balance of the year, and has revised its full year 2003 revenue forecast to $51 million, net income to $2.9 million and EPS to $0.15. The initial forecast was for 2003 full year revenue of $56.6 million and net income of $4.2 million or $0.21 per diluted share. For the full year 2002, the Company reported revenue of $49.1 million, net income of $2.8 million and EPS of $0.15. Detailed information about the revised 2003 quarterly business plan is available in the Investor Relations section of the Company's web site.

Gadi Tamari, Chief Executive Officer, commented: "We are disappointed that our performance in the U.S. market impeded our first quarter and full year expectations. In fact, we have already taken steps to realign our U.S. operations and refocus our U.S. channel strategy and we believe that it will have a positive impact on our results in the following quarters. We also have made important progress in pursuing our global opportunities both in traditional videoconferencing and in the emerging personal video communication market, as demonstrated by our FastWeb and 3G projects."

Mr. Tamari concluded: "While sales are forecast to pick-up in the second half of the year, we expect to resume stronger growth momentum beginning in 2004. That is based on our new channel strategy, planned product introductions and deepening relationships with our partners. It is also based on growing evidence that video conferencing is moving beyond the maturing room system market to the personal video application, which we will continue to capitalize on and foster."
