CVRD iron ore shipments

Rio de Janeiro, March 23, 2006 Companhia Vale do Rio Doce (CVRD) informs that its iron ore shipments suffered a reduction of one million tons due to interruptions of train traffic on the Carajás railroad, which links its Carajás mineral province to the Ponta da Madeira maritime terminal. These problems were caused by the intervention of third parties blocking the railroad traffic during the first quarter of 2006.

CVRD is fully committed to meet the demand of its clients and will try to recover this loss during 2006. However, given the operation at full capacity of the Carajás railroad, determined by the strong global demand growth for iron ore, CVRD recognizes that it will be very difficult to meet this goal.

This press release may contain statements that express management's expectations about future events or results rather than historical facts. These forward-looking statements involve risks and uncertainties that could cause actual results to differ materially from those projected in forward-looking statements, and CVRD cannot give assurance that such statements will prove correct. These risks and uncertainties include factors: relating to the Brazilian economy and securities markets, which exhibit volatility and can be adversely affected by developments in other countries; relating to the iron ore business and its dependence on the global steel industry, which is cyclical in nature; and relating to the highly competitive industries in which CVRD operates. For additional information on factors that could cause CVRD's actual results to differ from expectations reflected in forward-looking statements, please see CVRD's reports filed with the Brazilian Comissão de Valores Mobiliários and the U.S. Securities and Exchange Commission.
