Shareholders' LETTER

DEAR SHAREHOLDERS:

I am pleased to report that 2004 was an exceptional year. Net income for the Company was $18,614,000, or $1.11 per share, up from $17,283,000 or $1.02(1) per share in 2003. Return on average equity was 19.76% and return on average assets was 1.75%. The efficiency ratio was 35.78%. The efficiency ratio for our subsidiary West Bank was 30.70%.

Our 2003 acquisitions of Hawkeye State Bank in Iowa City and VMF Capital produced results in 2004 that exceeded our expectations. In the Iowa City market we recruited additional business development and customer service personnel, reviewed and improved the quality of the existing loan portfolio, developed significant new business relationships and increased our community involvement. At VMF Capital we increased assets under management through new business development, had strong performance in all investment styles and increased our profitability. The VMF Capital small cap equity investment style ranked among the top investment returns in the nation for 2004 according to the November 15, 2004 issue of Pensions & Investments.

Our 2004 results came from working in partnership with each of our four stakeholders. Highlights of our efforts to add value for these stakeholders follow.

OUR SHAREHOLDERS. In 2004 we paid a 5% stock dividend plus a cash dividend of $.625 per share for an average dividend yield of 3.55% based on the year end closing stock price of $17.61. This compares to our peers' average dividend yield of approximately 1.80%.(2) The total return on an investment in our stock from January 1, 2004 through December 31, 2004 was 11.2% compared to the total return of the SNL Midwest Bank Index of 12.8%.

OUR EMPLOYEES. Our employees are our most important asset. Our mission is to provide a quality work environment in which our employees can serve our clients. In 2004 we made investments in technology at all locations and in the physical facilities at many of our locations. We completed the office design we will use for new offices. In order to promote employee ownership of the Company we amended our 401(k) plan to become the Employee Savings and Stock Ownership Plan which will allow our employees to voluntarily direct funds to be invested in Company stock on a tax deferred basis. These improvements will continue in 2005 as we enhance the quality of the work environment for our employees so that it becomes even more fun, competitive and efficient.

OUR CLIENTS. As profiled in our annual report, Leachman Lumber, Des Moines Service Corporation and Iowa Cancer Treatment Center are typical of the close relationships we have with our many clients. The bank's 2004 client survey told us our clients expect convenient, excellent service and effective products that are competitively priced. In 2004 we enhanced the quality and frequency of the training our business development and customer service employees received to increase their expertise and their awareness of our customers needs. In December we opened a new office in Coralville to better serve the Coralville and North Liberty areas of our eastern Iowa market. We continuously strive to meet our mission of providing exceptional service as we solve our clients' financial needs.

OUR COMMUNITY. Contributing to the communities where we work is the soul of our company. In 2004 we continued our focus on buying local, funding charitable contributions and community service. Our commitment to buying local, whenever possible, helps create strong local economies where our businesses thrive and our citizens are employed. Through The West Bancorporation Foundation and West Bank we approved 29 charitable grants totaling $168,000. Several community projects were accomplished as our employees contributed approximately 7,500 hours to community service.

David R. Milligan retired as Chairman and Chief Executive Officer of West Bank on December 31, 2004 and will retire from the Company's board of directors at the annual meeting on April 12, 2005. Dave Milligan joined West Bank in 1980. During his tenure at the bank he was a trust officer, commercial loan officer, general counsel, Chairman and Chief Executive Officer. He has agreed to remain with us in a part time capacity working on special projects.

Our 2004 accomplishments continue to rank us among the top community banks in the nation. We believe we can improve. Our 2005 focus will remain on building long-term customer relationships and providing financial solutions. Our goal is to have steady growth in all asset classes and business lines without resorting to lower credit quality or excessive pricing. We plan to expand our statewide market share at West Bank and VMF Capital while also expanding the depth of the relationships with our existing clients.

We are prepared for 2005 to be a challenging year. Economic indications are that the national and State of Iowa economies will continue to grow at a slow pace through the end of 2005 with low to moderate inflation. We expect a steady increase in short term interest rates to keep inflation in check and bring rates back in line with the historical averages for a growing economy. At the same time we anticipate an overall flattening of the yield curve throughout the year as intermediate and long-term interest rates remain near their current levels. The ongoing uncertainty that remains out of our control is the high level of terrorist driven turmoil throughout the world.

All of us at West Bank and VMF Capital look forward to delivering exceptional service and financial solutions to our clients, and providing the financial results you, our shareholders, expect.

Very truly yours,
/s/ Thomas E. Stanberry

Thomas E. Stanberry

Excellent customer service is ALIVE AND WELL

Time and time again, excellent, one-on-one, personalized service is what our customers mention when asked why they remain so loyal to West Bank. Service is the business we're in and we will never forget it. West Bank's many long-term relationships are the result of our purposeful focus on "ethically, aggressively and professionally serving the existing and future needs of our clients." Our mission statement specifically defines our first priority as being "the recognized leader for providing financial solutions and community service in our markets." If excellent customer service were not alive and well at West Bank, we wouldn't have the long track record of successfully following through on those promises. The stories on the following pages bear witness to the effect of relentlessly placing our customers and their needs ahead of everything else. There are hundreds more stories just like them. Listen as our clients and community service partners reveal a recurring theme of unparalleled individual attention and customer service.

Charlie Grask (center), president of Des Moines Service Corporation, says West Bank gives him the support he needs to run his business efficiently. Pictured with him are West Bank assistant trust officer, Jami Turner (right), and Brad Winterbottom (left), West Bank president.

"THERE WILL ALWAYS BE INTELLIGENT, PROFESSIONAL DIALOGUE"

When Charlie Grask was ready to make a change in his banking relationship, he called West Bank president Brad Winterbottom for advice. They met and twelve hours later had worked out a deal that resulted in Charlie moving his business accounts to West Bank. Charlie is the president of Des Moines Service Corporation, which owns the local National Car Rental and Alamo Rent-A-Car franchises. "The arrangement we worked out," said Charlie, "gives me the flexibility I need to run my business." Charlie's father, Phil Grask, started the business with the National Car Rental franchise in 1968. Charlie went to work for the company when he was 16 years old as a car prep person. Throughout his college years, he worked the counter renting cars. Following college, Charlie rose through the management structure and when his father retired six years ago, he became president. The company added the Alamo Rent-A-Car franchise two years ago. They currently operate two locations in Des Moines, one at the Des Moines International Airport and the other on the west side at 100th and Hickman Road. In addition to maintaining business checking and loan accounts at West Bank, Charlie says he uses VMF Capital to manage his company's 401(k) and profit sharing plans, and West Bank's trust department acts as trustee. "So far, West Bank has performed well on every service related issue we've had. I would recommend West Bank to other businesses because they really want to work with you," he said. "I feel there's a real line of communication with the people at West Bank. They know what we do and how we like to do it. Issues can come up at any time, but I feel with West Bank, there will always be intelligent, professional dialogue."

"NOTHING TAKES THE PLACE OF PERSONALIZED SERVICE"

John Leachman, Sr., chairman and CEO of Des Moines-based Leachman Lumber Company, places a lot of importance on personal relationships. As head of an 83-year-old family business that supplies lumber and building products primarily to home builders and contractors, John says nothing takes the place of personalized service. He's been banking with West Bank for more than 37 years because of "the personal attention I get from them. They're absolutely the best at that!" John's father and grandfather started Leachman Lumber in 1921. John grew up in the lumber business and joined the company in 1957. With an inventory that sometimes swells to more than $1.8 million, Leachman Lumber relies heavily on West Bank as their financial partner. "We recently wanted to buy some of the properties around us so we can expand," said John. "West Bank not only helped us with financing, but was very encouraging of our expansion." John often recommends West Bank to other businesses. "I tell them West Bank will take a personal interest in their business and help it grow," he said. Even though Leachman Lumber's president and COO, Jim Kahler, is not a Leachman family member, the company remains a Leachman family enterprise. John's nephew, Mark, Jr., is the purchasing agent; John's son, John, Jr. (Jack), is involved with sales; and John's daughter, Jennifer, a CPA, is the company's chief financial officer. Perhaps the most famous Leachman family member is Hollywood actress Cloris Leachman, John's cousin. Her father, Berkley Leachman, worked in the family business until his death. "Cloris was in Des Moines just a while back," said John. "She came out to the lumberyard and visited, gave hugs, and made everybody feel special. She's a wonderful woman." Another personal relationship John prizes!

"A VERY CONSTRUCTIVE, VERY PROFESSIONAL RELATIONSHIP"

Doctors Hamed and Ferial Tewfik have dedicated their lives to treating patients with cancer. The husband and wife physician team, originally from Alexandria, Egypt, started their medical training in their native country, where they became interested in a new technology called "Cobalt Radiation Therapy." This interest resulted in an opportunity to travel overseas and they eventually finished their medical training at the University of New York at Buffalo. "Fate" is what Hamed says brought them to Iowa. They had a cousin living in Iowa City and after a 1971 visit, they moved to Iowa City to practice medicine. Their specialty is radiation oncology and in 1985 they opened the Iowa City Cancer Treatment Center, specializing in cancer radiation treatment. The Tewfiks work with a staff of eight, including a radiation physicist. They have a banking relationship with West Bank in Iowa City, primarily, Hamed says, because "it's a community-based bank interested in the local people doing business in the community." He likes the "personal, one-on-one working relationship" he has with West Bank, particularly with West Bank Iowa City market president, Lynn Rowat, and West Bank second vice president, Maggie Kiewiet. "They're very knowledgeable and they really understand our needs," Hamed said. The Tewfiks like the service they receive from West Bank so much they not only have their business accounts with us, but also their personal accounts. They even have a daughter living in Virginia who has an account at West Bank. "So far our relationship with West Bank has been very constructive, very professional," he concludes. "They take care of our business with a minimum of hassle, a minimum of work. No problems. No snags. And all it takes is a telephone call to get things done."

FOUNDATION LAUNCHED

Always known for its generous giving to various charitable civic, and cultural activities and causes in the communities we serve, West Bancorporation established a charitable foundation to consider and award donations.

Edgar Filing: WEST BANCORPORATION INC - Form ARS

The West Bancorporation Foundation, Inc. was founded as a permanently funded vehicle for providing assistance to various community needs. "It's our way of formally setting aside money for the purpose of giving back to the community," explained Joyce Chapman, West Bank executive vice president, who serves as executive director of the Foundation. "We have always given to deserving causes and are known for our giving. But the foundation now provides a formal structure through which we can set aside funds for accomplishing our charitable activities."

Requests for donations from the foundation should be made to Joyce Chapman at West Bank. "All requests will be reviewed on a regular basis by the foundation's board of directors," she explained. "We will look at the nature of the effort and whether or not it fits the stated purposes of the foundation."

"We're excited about establishing the foundation," she stated. "It allows us to permanently set aside funds that will enable us to continue our support of viable efforts that benefit the communities and their citizens."

BUY FRESH, BUY LOCAL

West Bank has become a sponsor of "Buy Fresh, Buy Local", a partnership with Practical Farmers of Iowa and the Drake University Agricultural Law Center. The "Buy Fresh, Buy Local" program encourages consumers to buy and enjoy fresh foods from local producers. It also educates consumers about the economic, social and product benefits of buying fresh, local foods. Buying locally supports local farms and businesses in the central Iowa area and contributes to the overall economic well-being of the state. The program through its website, (www.practicalfarmers.org) links consumers and producers alike to a directory of area farmers market locations and dates, as well as restaurants, grocery stores and other businesses featuring fresh, locally grown food.

TOOLS FOR SCHOOLS

[GRAPHIC]

The first annual West Bank "Tools For Schools" supply drive was held at ten West Bank locations in Des Moines and Iowa City in September. Designed to benefit middle and grade schools in Des Moines, West Des Moines, Urbandale and Iowa City school districts, more than $14,000 in cash and school supplies was collected to help replenish basic school supplies used in these districts during the school year.

"Tools For Schools" was established by West Bancorporation Inc., in response to this year's state and federal educational funding cuts. The effort was coordinated through school district representatives, who helped establish needs and facilitated the distribution of supplies to the schools. The "Tools For Schools" effort marks the first time four different area school districts have teamed up for such a campaign.

West Bancorporation chairman, president and CEO, Tom Stanberry, and West Bank executive vice president, Joyce Chapman, are joined by area school children to help celebrate the success of the first annual West Bank "Tools For Schools" supply drive campaign. The West Bancorporation Foundation kicked off the campaign with a $5,000 cash donation.
