DEAR STOCKHOLDERS

The Fund's net asset value per share (NAV) gained 18.8% in 2003 after adjustment for dividends, compared to the 32.3% rise in the Taiwan Stock Exchange Index (TAIEX). During the year the New Taiwan dollar appreciated 2.3% against the U.S. dollar.

The Taiwan market proved resilient in 2003, bouncing back with a strong recovery after suffering the effects of war and disease in the early months. The year actually began on a high note with a double-digit gain of the TAIEX in January. This rise was kick-started by a U.S. stock rally. A wave of liquidity also supported the market as certain interest rates hit record lows while companies were paying out bonuses before Chinese New Year in late January.

The initial optimism turned to despair over the next three months, however. The increasing likelihood of armed conflict in Iraq damped investor enthusiasm as war jitters pushed crude oil prices to a 12-year high. Investor confidence plunged further after the outbreak of severe acute respiratory syndrome (SARS) and its spread through a series of cluster infections in hospitals. Largely as a result of the epidemic, Taiwan's economy suffered a small contraction in the second quarter (compared to the year earlier period). And the stock market declined almost 18% from the end of January to the year's low in late April.

As efforts to contain the disease proved successful, investor attention was increasingly drawn to signs of an American economic rebound after the quick end to war in Iraq and improving fundamentals of many of Taiwan's technology companies. The momentum built on both these fronts in the remaining months of 2003. Most measures of U.S. manufacturing and services industries indicated a pick-up in business conditions before mid-year. The ensuing rally on Wall Street helped lift markets in many export-driven economies of Asia.

annual earnings estimate in the summer after second-quarter profits surpassed the previous full-year forecast. In November and December every major flat-panel display producer raised annual earnings forecasts. Meanwhile, many traditional producers in such industries as steel and petrochemicals enjoyed solid growth largely as a result of surging demand from China.

The dividend notification letter sent out to shareholders on January 19 included a reminder of important recent developments involving the Fund. Following a December decision of your Trustees, the Fund's name has been changed

Official U.S. data served to confirm second quarter growth in business software rose to a three-year high and economic growth soared to 8.2%.

Fueled by strong foreign demand, Taiwan quickly bounced back to health after suffering a sharp decline in the second quarter. Merchandise exports made up roughly half of gross national product in 2003. This was primarily due to strong demand from China (including Hong Kong), which accounted for nearly half of total exports. The recovery of demand was strong and less robust. Private investment rose sharply near yearend as indicated by more orders for capital goods in November and December than the same period in 2002. We estimate that exports grew about 3.1% last year and are forecast to grow 4% in 2004.

The TAIEX climbed 48% from late October to early November and then dropped sharply to close out 2003. For most of the year, however, the strong support from foreign institutional investors and net purchases of Taiwan stocks tempered the decline.

A wide range of Taiwan's technology companies benefited from the U.S. recovery. Growth was temporarily slowed by SARS, but demand for electronics growth on a broad front. Quarter after quarter, contract manufacturers of semiconductors and computer makers often exceeded market expectations. Prices of the most widely used microprocessors broke even level and remained in the green at the end of the year. In the electronics sector, Taiwan's largest flat-panel display manufacturer

Upon conversion I will be stepping into the shoes of the Fund and would like to take over from the many investors who have supported the Fund during its tenure. Steven R. Champion, who has been the Fund's portfolio manager, is well-known and has managed the Fund from its inception. He will provide able leadership and to Taiwan Greater China Fund to reflect the investment strategy of concentrating on Taiwan listed companies whose business is becoming increasingly integrated with the economy of China. The Fund is also converting to internal management.

NOTES TO CONSOLIDATED FINANCIAL STATEMENTS / DECEMBER 31, 2003 (EXPRESSED IN U.S. DOLLARS)

NOTE 1 -- ORGANIZATION AND ACQUISITION OF TAIWAN GREATER CHINA FUND

The Taiwan Greater China Fund (the "Trust", formerly known as The R.O.C. Taiwan Fund) is a Massachusetts business trust formed in July 1988 and registered with the U.S. Securities and Exchange Commission as a diversified, closed-end management investment company under the Investment Company Act of 1940. The Trust changed its name from The R.O.C. Taiwan Fund to the Taiwan Greater China Fund on December 29, 2003. The change took effect on the New York Stock Exchange on January 2, 2004.

The Trust was formed in connection with the reorganization (the "Reorganization") of The Taiwan (R.O.C.) Fund (the "Fund"). The Fund, which commenced operations in October 1983, was established under the laws of the Republic of China as an open-end contractual investment fund pursuant to an investment contract between International Investment Trust Company Limited ("IIT") and Central Trust of China, as custodian. Pursuant to the Reorganization, which was completed in May 1989, the Trust acquired the entire beneficial interest in the assets constituting the Fund.

As required by the Trust's "Declaration of Trust," if the shares trade on the market at an average discount to NAV of more than 10% in any consecutive 12-week period after the most recent such vote, the Trust must submit to the shareholders for a vote at its next annual meeting a binding resolution that the Trust be converted from a closed-end to an open-end investment company. The affirmative vote of a majority of the Trust's outstanding shares is required to approve such a conversion.

largely paid, in New Taiwan Dollars ("NT$"). The cost and market value of securities, currency holdings and other assets and liabilities which are denominated in NT$ are reported in the accompanying consolidated financial statements after translation into United States Dollars based on the closing market rate for United States Dollars in Taiwan at the end of the period. At December 31, 2003, this rate was approximately NT$33.978 to $1.00. Investment income and expenses are translated at an average exchange rate for the period. Currency translation gains or losses are reported as a separate component of changes in net assets resulting from operations.

The tax characteristics of dividend during the years ended December follows:

Ordinary income
 Long-term capital gain.....

The Trust does not separately record that portion of the results of operations resulting from changes in foreign exchange rates on investments from the fluctuations arising from changes in market prices of securities held. Such fluctuations are included with the net realized and unrealized gain or loss from investments.

As of December 31, 2003 the component distributable earnings/(accumulated basis) were as follows:

Undistributed net investment income.....
 Capital loss carryforward...
 Unrealized appreciation (depreciation).....

F-- Distributions to shareholders-- It is the Trust's policy to distribute all ordinary income and net capital gains calculated in accordance with U.S. federal income tax regulations. Such calculations may differ from those based on accounting principles generally accepted in the United States of America ("GAAP"). In order to reconcile such differences, accumulated net investment income was increased by $1,293, accumulated net realized loss on investments was decreased by $17,397, and additional paid in capital was decreased by $18,672 to reflect the impact of such differences in accordance with GAAP.

G -- Taxes -- the Trust intends to continue to qualify as a regulated investment company under the Internal Revenue Code of 1986. If the Trust complies with all of the requirements of the Code, it will not be subject to federal income and excise taxes on the net capital gains of all of its investment company taxable income and net capital gains to its shareholders.

The Trust declared a dividend of $0.06 a share, payable on January 23, 2004 to shareholders of record on December 19, 2003 (ex-date December 17, 2003). The dividend, in the total amount of $1,961,939, represents a deemed distribution of the Fund's investment in certain Taiwanese companies classified as passive foreign investment companies for U.S. federal income tax purposes, for the period from November 1, 2002 to October 31, 2003.

The Republic of China ("R.O.C.") imposes a 20% withholding tax on cash dividends and interest on investments in R.O.C. securities levied based on the par value of those which have resulted from a surplus received by the Trust. As of December 31, 2003, the total par

H --Use of estimates-- The preparation of financial statements in conformity with accounting principles generally accepted in the United States of America requires management to make estimates and assumptions that affect the amounts reported in the consolidated financial statements, consolidated financial highlights and the accompanying notes. Actual results could differ from those estimates.

NOTE 3-- INVESTMENT CONSIDERATIONS

Because the Trust concentrates its investments in publicly traded equity and debt securities issued by R.O.C. corporations, its portfolio involves considerations not typically associated with investing in U.S. securities. In addition, the Trust is more susceptible to factors adversely affecting the R.O.C. economy than a fund not concentrated in these issuers to the same extent. Since the Trust's investment securities are primarily denominated in New Taiwan Dollars, changes in the relationship of the New Taiwan Dollar to the U.S. Dollar may also significantly affect the value of the investments and the earnings of the Trust.

NOTE 4-- INVESTMENT MANAGEMENT

A-- Pursuant to an investment contract (the "Investment Contract"), IIT (the "Manager"), an R.O.C. corporation, is responsible, among other things, for investing and managing the assets of the Trust and administering the Trust's affairs. Through December 31, 2003, the Trust paid the Manager a fee, which is accrued daily and paid monthly in arrears, at the annual rate of 1.35% of the net asset value ("NAV") with respect to Trust assets held in Taiwan under the Investment Contract up to NT$6 billion, 1.15% of such NAV in excess of NT$6 billion up to NT$8 billion, 0.95% of

Pursuant to Section 853 of the Internal Revenue Code of 1986, as amended, the Trust designated such amounts as having been paid in connection with dividends distributed from investment company taxable income during its fiscal year ended December 31, 2003.

The Trust and its predecessors, The Taiwan (R.O.C.) Fund and The R.O.C. Taiwan Fund, have been certified as distributing funds by the Board of Inland Revenue of the United Kingdom for the period from their inception to December 31, 2002. The Trust intends to apply for such status for succeeding accounting periods.
